

Maggie's Mission

About Me:

Hi, I'm Maggie. I'm 13 and in the 7th grade. I'm a missionary kid to Colombia. I love being a missionary! When I saw kids in need, I felt God telling me I could do something to help. I have an idea to help kids all over the world and I'd like to tell you about it.

My plan:

My plan is to begin small by starting in Colombia to help supply blankets, soaps and shampoos to the children. Each kid we give supplies to, I hope to also provide a Bible or Book of Hope that will tell them about God. If we can get enough help, then I'd like to start teaming up with people and missionaries around the world that would receive the stuff and give it to kids in other countries, too.

Why I want to do this:

I want to start this project because when we first went to the mission field I saw how many people had nothing and it changed my life and how I see some things. I can't stand to have so much when others have nothing. I finally have a chance to do something about it. I want to do everything I possibly can. I don't care if the world tells me that I'm too young because with God on my side nothing can stop me.

What inspired me:

What first inspired me to start the project is when my family and I lived in Colombia. A little girl named Angie told her supporters all she wanted was a blanket and shampoo instead of toys. She was so happy when she got a blanket and supplies to take a shower. I was surprised at how little she had. Her family of eight was sharing one bed, so before we left Colombia we gave Angie my bed. I want to help take care of the needs of children all over the world.

How you can help:

You can help by sending donations of blankets, soap and shampoo for us to take and share in Colombia. We will be preparing to take our first shipment into Colombia in the beginning of May. (Our collections will be ongoing, but if you'd like to be part of the first shipment we will need your items by April 15th.) If you'd like to take part, please send the supplies you collect to:
